

AT-A-GLANCE: CURRENT REGIONAL INVESTMENTS

Language Preservation

The intent of the Native Language Preservation Strategy is to provide opportunities for Native American children from birth to age 5, not enrolled in kindergarten, and their families to support their connection to and understanding of their language and culture. It provides opportunities for Native American families and children to understand their own culture, language and connection to the tribal community. Here are the First Things First regions funding this strategy.

Hualapai Tribe	$ 15,000
Navajo Nation	$ 100,000
San Carlos Apache	$ 125,000
