

Investing in Our Future: Positive Outcomes of Early Childhood Investments

First Things First represents a commitment Arizonans made to our youngest children – that they would have the support they need to start school healthy and ready to succeed. Many young children in Arizona face significant barriers to their success, including poverty, trauma and lack of access to needed resources. In the FTF Coconino Region, there are 9,652 children (under age 6), with 16% living in poverty. Here is how FTF is working to support young children and their families in this region.

90% of a child's brain grows before kindergarten.
Early childhood matters.

FTF invests in proven programs and innovative strategies through grants to community organizations that provide services to children and families. Some of the programs in this region include Parents as Teachers and Healthy Steps.

Quality First uses research to help children thrive

The First Things First Coconino Regional Partnership Council recognizes the important need for quality early childhood education in Coconino County. The regional council continues to fund Quality First, which partners with child care and preschool providers to improve the quality of early learning development in Arizona. Quality First provides quality improvements that research proves help children thrive, such as training for teachers to expand their skills and to help create learning environments that nurture the emotional, social and academic development of every child.

The early childhood years, from birth to age 5, are when a child's brain is growing faster than at any other time in life. And early brain development has a lasting impact on a child's ability to learn and succeed in school and life. The brain connections needed for many important abilities like motivation, self-regulation, problem-solving and communication are formed in these early years through positive, nurturing interactions with caring adults.
